

Website Disclaimer:

This website was prepared for informational purposes only by Sutherland Law, PLC. Any testimonials from former clients were only used after obtaining informed consent, and the firm cannot guarantee the same results. The content and materials contained on this website are not intended to, and do not constitute legal advice. Website visitors should not act upon this information without seeking professional counsel.

Sending or receiving materials does not create an attorney-client relationship between the sender and the receiver. Do not send messages containing confidential or time-sensitive information. The use of the Internet for communications with this law firm does not establish an attorney-client relationship.

Sending or receiving information via e-mail does not create an attorney-client relationship. This law firm will use the information provided to check for conflicts of interest. Only after a thorough check for conflicts of interest, can the firm determine if we can help you with your legal request(s).

This disclaimer intends to avoid any misunderstanding by the website visitor. Including the following: (1) a client-lawyer relationship has not been created; (2) the visitor's information will be kept confidential; (3) legal advice has not been given; and (4) the lawyer may represent an adverse party, so only after a conflict of interest check should an attorney-client relationship be established.

Cookies:

There is a technology called "cookies" that can be used to provide you with tailored information from a web site. A cookie is an element of data that a web site can send to your browser, which may then store it on your system. This website may use cookies so that we can analyze browsing habits and better serve you when you return to our site later. You can set your browser to notify you when you receive a cookie, giving you the chance to decide whether to accept it.

E-Mail Disclaimer:

Sending or receiving materials via e-mail does not create an attorney-client relationship. E-mails from this firm normally contain confidential and privileged material and are for the sole use of the intended recipient. Use or distribution by an unintended recipient is prohibited and may be a violation of the law. If you believe that you received an e-mail in error, please do not read the e-mail or any attached items. Please delete the e-mail and all attachments, including any copies thereof, and inform the sender that you have deleted the e-mail, all attachments and any copies thereof. Thank you.

Third-Party Links on Website:

The Sutherland Law, PLC website may contain links to other websites. We are not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of those websites. There may be links that make it easier for you to connect to third party sites or that allow access to this site from other third-party sites. Linked third party sites are not under the control of this firm and we are not responsible for the contents of any linked site or any link contained on such a site. The existence of third party links is not an endorsement by Sutherland Law, PLC in favor of such site or the products, services, or information contained on the site.

Sutherland Law, PLC makes no representations or warranties, express or implied, regarding any information that appears on this web site or on any third-party site linked to this web site. Sutherland Law, PLC does not endorse and is not responsible for any information that appears on any third party site linked to this web site.

Privacy Policy

Attorneys have always been and continue to be bound by a strict code of professional standards governing client confidentiality. We will always protect your right to privacy.

Federal law as well as the regulations of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) requires law firms, like other professionals who may provide personal financial services, to inform their clients about the firm's privacy policy concerning client information. Specifically, this notice complies with the Safeguard Provisions of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, Pub. Law 106-102 November 13, 2000 and the correlative Federal Trade Commission (FTC) regulation, 16 CFR Part 314 (May 23, 2003).

While providing an individual client with legal advice, we often receive a significant amount of personal information, including financial information. As a client or future client Sutherland Law, PLC, you should be confident that all the information we receive from you is held in the strictest confidence and is not released to anyone outside our offices, except by your agreement, or as required by law.

We retain records relating to the professional services we provide so that we are better able assist you with your legal needs, and in some cases, to comply with professional guidelines. To protect your nonpublic, personal information, we maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards that comply with professional standards.

Should you have any questions or concerns about the firm's privacy policy, the treatment of your personal information or the firm's professional code of ethics, please feel free to contact Sutherland Law, PLC.